

Posting on Facebook via Trulia

Trulia is a Real Estate search engine and resource tool Buyers are using more and more. You can setup a free account here, highlight your listings, plus get visitor traffic and hits that you can send to your sellers to help keep them informed. This how to guide walks you through posting your listings on Facebook via Trulia.

Go to www.trulia.com and for your first time here, click on “Log In” in the top right hand corner of the screen.

Once you click on this, a new screen will come up like the one below to login to your account.

Type in your email address you had setup previously, then your password. Click “Log In”

Once you click the “Log In” Button, the Trulia home screen doesn't change much except for your name will appear at the top of the screen.

Click the down arrow next to your name and the click on “My Listings”

Your Listings will page will load showing you all of the listings you either claimed that were already in Trulia, or that you had personally entered (Covered in the How To Guide, Setting Up Your Trulia Account).

Once here, look for the listing you would like to post and move your mouse over the “More Options” Tab and then click on “Share on Facebook”

The window to the right will pop up which is asking you to sign into your Facebook account. Enter your Facebook email and password and then click “Login” at the bottom of this window.

The window to the left will pop up which will show you how your Facebook post will look. If you want to type a little introduction you can by typing in here.

If everything looks good to you, click “Share” in the bottom right hand corner.

Your post will now appear on Facebook. You can now close out the confirmation window and you will be back in Trulia.
